PARADE OF FOUR DIVISIONS WILL MARK SPECTACLE

Parents Requested to Have Each Child Along Route of Parade Wave Flag

LOYALTY DEMONSTRATION FIRST OF ITS KIND IN STATE

Troops Will Be Reviewed From Federal Building Steps—Many Visitors Expected

It may be only a matter of hours until Bismarck's streets are deserted by the khaki-clad forms which have become so familiar during the last six months. Adjutant General Fraser advised this afternoon that the call for the enlistment of North Dakota's two regiments is expected any moment. Routing orders have been issued, transportation provided for, mess arrangements made. Everything is set for the departure of the boys on a journey whose end no one can foresee. Even their immediate destination is not yet determined. The movement of troops will be kept secret until it has been successfully accomplished. The number of enemies in our midst is too great to warrant the war department's endangering the safety of any of our soldiers by announcing plans far in advance.

Those taking part in the parade should assemble at 2:30 p. m. at the Auditorium. It is especially requested that the men drafted for service participate in the parade. A division has been assigned to them. All men whose names are on the list are asked to participate in the parade.

Fathers and mothers are asked to place a small flag in their children's hands tomorrow so that the soldiers will see one long line of red, white and blue as they go over the route of march.

The local committee is determined to give the 700 soldiers quartered here an ovation as the time draws near for their departure to mobilization points and training camps. Children are asked to wave flags as the soldiers pass by and their elders can be depended upon to give the boys in khaki a real ovation.

Those who are to participate in the parade will form north of the Auditorium under Major Henry, who is marshal for the day. He will direct the formation of the parade. It will move east to Ninth street, south to Main, west to the International Harvester building, north to Broadway, east to the federal building, and thence to point of mobilization north of the Auditorium.

Following is the order of the parade:

First Division.
Major Henry, grand marshal.
Governor Frazier and staff.
Council of defense and state exemption board.
Battalion band.
Second battalion, First regiment, N. D. national guard, Major Wright commanding.

Second Division.
Second Regiment band.
Col. White and staff.
Company I, Capt. Welch commanding.
Headquarters company, Capt. Murphy commanding.
Supply company, Capt. Rock commanding.
Hospital corps, Major Hunt commanding.

Third Division.
Drum and file corps.
Drafted men of first national army County exemption board—Dr. Stackhouse, Sheriff French and County Auditor Flaherty.
American flag, carried by 40 girls.
American flag, carried by 40 boys.
Fourth Division.
Bismarck Boy Scouts, Scout Master Jackson commanding.
Red Cross float.
Woman's Relief corps float.
Woman's auxiliary float.
Review of Troops.

Governor Frazier and his staff and Mayor A. W. Lucas will review the troops from the steps of the federal building. It will probably be the last public review of the troops before they entrain for their mobilization points.

Demonstration in Honor of Soldiers Should be Epochal In History of Capital City

Bismarck will show its appreciation of the men who are making the supreme sacrifice in behalf of their nation tomorrow afternoon. The ceremony will have some of the significance of a farewell because before many days, some of the companies will be called to training camps and drafted men will be leaving for cantonments to enter a period of training.

It has been thought best to have this public farewell now, because the uncertainty of the date of departure insures no time for preparation. Bismarck is proud of the soldiers who have been here for several weeks and who have conducted themselves so well as to win the deep respect of the entire community. They are fine specimens of manhood, clean cut and worthy to represent this state on the battlefields of Europe.

The slope districts whose men have been stationed here should send delegations to be present at the pageant and add their cheers to those of Bismarck.

Citizens should decorate their places and contribute to the success of the pageant by packing the line of march.

It probably will be the last chance to see all the boys in marching order before their departure for active service.

NORTH DAKOTA CITIES PROTEST AGAINST MEET

Governor Frazier's Action in Inviting Peace Council Agitators Not Supported

MAYOR MOE WIRES WHAT VALLEY CITY THINKS

Governor Frazier and the rest of the world were not long left in doubt as to what North Dakota thought of the action of its chief executive in inviting without consulting the wishes of any of the communities affected the People's Peace council and its affiliates to meet in North Dakota to carry on its propaganda against the United States government.

Mayor Moe of Valley City yesterday wired Mayor Stern of Fargo congratulating the Gate City upon its patriotism in squelching the meeting which Max Eastman attempted to hold there, and expressing the belief that when cities are forced to meet an emergency of this kind in suppressing unpatriotic demonstrations they should not be singled out for bitter criticism nor interfered with by the chief executive of the state, who should set an example in patriotism and loyalty rather than to take a course which might be misinterpreted as the reverse. Mayor Moe stated his opinion that North Dakota cities are loyal to the United States government; that they are peace-loving and law-abiding and can be depended upon to look after their own affairs without assistance from Governor Frazier and Attorney General Langer.

Fargo loyalists had prepared an extensive set of resolutions to be addressed to the United States marshal, the sheriff of Cass county and the police officers of the Gate City in the event of the peace council's attempting to accept the invitation of Governor Frazier to hold its meetings there or anywhere else in the state that it might choose.

"The right of free speech and of assembly, which is guaranteed by the state and federal constitutions, does not include and protect unlawful and treasonable speech or unlawful and treasonable assemblies," read these resolutions, "or speech and assemblies which would in effect give aid and comfort to our enemies, but on the contrary such speech and assemblies are condemned by the law and by the constitution."

"Therefore, we the undersigned, citizens of Fargo, respectfully protest to you against the holding of the proposed meeting by the persons named and their associates in the city of Fargo or elsewhere in the state."

Anti-Draft Agitators Attacks Officials

Milwaukee, Aug. 31.—The attempted shooting of a representative of the department of justice and an attack with an axe on Sheriff Kellner, near Manitowish, late last night by a man named Voss, marked the first anti-draft trouble in Wisconsin. A posse is said to be in pursuit of the assailant.

The gunfire is said to have been directed at William H. Steiner, a government deputy.

The aggressor is said to be the brother of a young farmer, who is reported to have failed to register under the selective draft act.

FEDERAL SAFETY EXPERT CALLING ON RAIL BOARD

Electrical Engineer of National Bureau of Standards Investigates Conditions

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IS ATTRACTING ATTENTION

Recognizing the rapid industrial development of North Dakota, Walter Calvin Wagner, associate engineer with the United States bureau of standards, representing the national electric safety code, stopped off in Bismarck today for a conference with the state railway commission relative to the standardization of safety rules in North Dakota. While here, Wagner conferred with representatives of large power and transmission companies now operating in North Dakota or soon to begin the operation of large plants in this state.

The bureau of standards at Washington maintains an elaborate laboratory for the purpose of testing standards for public utilities and service companies designed to protect property and promote public safety. In the last four years, in cooperation with engineers and public utilities commissions of several states, the bureau has developed a national electric safety code which has been accepted by fifteen states.

The purpose of this code is to effect a standardization for safety paralleling that established by the national electric fire code. At the invitation of several northwestern states, Engineer Wagner now is visiting this section for the purpose of consulting with railway and public utility commissions and to explain the working of the code. It is the hope of the bureau of standards that there will result from this closer communion a better understanding and a more general utilization of the national standards of safety.

This is a year of trial for these standards. Upon the experience of this probationary period changes and revisions will be made and it is expected that the code will be placed on a practical working basis where it may be adopted by every state. The bureau has been making a special study of gas and electric standards of service and electrolysis litigation and municipal problems.

With the gradual development of high power transmission lines as those which soon will radiate from central power plants at Garrison, Bismarck and other points in the lignite belt, North Dakota will come more and more to need the experience of the national bureau of standards, and the railway commission anticipates much permanent benefit from the visit of Mr. Wagner.

200,000 DRUG ADDICTS ASKS FOR ASSISTANCE

New York, Aug. 31.—United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy announced today that he was considering plans to care for 200,000 drug addicts who have been deprived of their sources of supply following a number of raids made recently. The marshal said he had been visited by persons in all walks of life, who confessed they were slaves to the narcotics, which they were now unable to get due to the vigilance of the authorities. They begged the marshal to tell them of some institution where they could receive treatment.

PEACE DOVES HAVE NO PLACE TO HOLD MEET

Hudson, Wisconsin, Won't Allow Conference May Go to Milwaukee

HOUSE OF PRO-GERMAN STONED BY ANGRY MOB

Trains Bearing Delegates to People's Council Passed Thru Empty Pasa

Minneapolis, Aug. 31.—The People's Council of America today served notice through its executive secretary, Lewis Lochner, that its peace conference program would be carried out despite the difficulties in obtaining a meeting place. Mr. Lochner intimated that the meeting would now be held in Milwaukee.

Hudson, Wis., Aug. 31.—Hudson was quiet this morning after the excitement of last night when the four gatherings of the organization meeting of the People's Council of America for peace and democracy to have been held here September 2, were driven from town with a warning not to return.

Throw Eggs at Store. It was learned this morning, however, that the activities of the more enthusiastic patriots did not cease until they had demonstrated their resentment toward the action of Charles Stanner, a member of the City Council by throwing several bricks through the windows of his store in the downtown district.

Stanner did not, according to the statement of council members, attend the meeting of the city council at which it was decided not to allow the council to meet here and later refused to sign a petition sent to the Wisconsin Public Safety commission.

DELEGATES ON THEIR WAY. Erie, Pa., Aug. 31.—The special train carrying 150 delegates from New York and other eastern cities to the People's Council of America for democracy and peace passed through here today. The train stopped here only a few minutes. One woman alone was awake. She said she did not know where the conference would be held.

Leaders of the People's Council of America announced here today that they would start for Washington, D. C., tonight to put the question of their right of holding a national peace conference up to the federal authorities. In case a hall cannot be obtained there, it was suggested that the meeting might be held on the plaza in front of the capitol.

The decision to put the issue squarely up to official Washington was announced by Lewis H. Lochner, executive secretary, after a morning session with the eastern executives over the long distance telephone.

APPEAL TO BURNQUIST

New York, Aug. 31.—The American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, among whose members are leaders in the American Federation of Labor, have sent a telegram to Governor John A. A. Burnquist of Minnesota, asking that he reconsider his decision not to allow the People's Council to meet in that state. It was learned today. The message said that the "message" of the People's organization was realized by the American Alliance, the members of which were anxious to meet those of the council and fight it out, face to face. The telegram also said that such action would not give the pacifists any excuse to charge "suppression of free speech," and concluded:

"We have nothing to fear from open argument; it is only secret plotting we fear."

WON'T RESCIND ORDER

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—Governor John A. A. Burnquist after reading the message from the American Alliance of Labor and Democracy, in which he was requested to rescind the order which refused the People's Council for Peace and Democracy to meet in Minnesota, said he could see no reason why the order should be rescinded.

"I have carefully considered the message urging reconsideration of the order barring the People's Council from Minnesota," the governor said. "Under the existing conditions in Minneapolis as reported to me by the sheriff of Hennepin county, and further information received as to the objects of the proposed meeting, I am more than ever convinced that the prohibitory order was necessary."

Will Be Enforced. "The proclamation has been issued and will be enforced. There is nothing in the telegram which I received today nor elsewhere to my knowledge to warrant reconsideration. The people of Minnesota are not in a frame of mind to entertain gatherings which can serve no purpose other than giving aid and comfort to enemies of the United States."

LULL NOTED IN ALL CAMPAIGNS; CADORNA ACTIVE

Characteristic Pauses in All Great Drives—German Raids Are Repulsed

PREPARATIONS FOR NEXT BIG FORWARD THRUST

Casualties Notably Less for August Than Those of the Month Before

(By Associated Press)

None of the three big campaigns now in progress on the western front seems again to have got into full swing. General Cadorna, whose great drive for Trieste is perhaps the most spectacular of the current operations, is displaying an activity more pronounced than either General Petain or General Haig, in their respective holds of Verdun, and in the Arras and Flanders areas. Even the Italian commander, however, apparently is in the midst of one of the pauses characteristic of virtually all of the great drives.

On the front below Lens, General Haig reports repulse of German raids on the British lines five miles north-east. No mention is made of the activity on the British side, but London war office intimates that the battle is being carried on in virtually continuous form in preparation for the next forward thrust with every indication that the wearing down process is having its effect.

General Petain's report indicated the possibility of a speedy renewal of the infantry battle at Verdun. The artillery on both sides of the Meuse is actively bombarding the German lines. The Germans have shown some activity in Alsace, making an attack near Hartmannswiller Kopf, which the French repulsed.

Although the British army, on the French-Belgian front, were engaged in much notable heavy fighting during August, including the great attack of the Anglo-French forces in Flanders, the casualties were notably less than during July. The British figures for August, given out by London today, total 59,811 as compared with 71,832 for July, a falling off of more than 12,000. The casualties, indeed, have been on a descending scale during the entire period since the active campaigning season opened, the high mark being set in the May figure, which totaled 112,233.

AMERICAN LABOR ALLIANCE PLANS PATRIOTIC RALLY

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Secretary Edward Nockels of the Chicago Federation of Labor today received telegrams from the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy headquarters at New York that the delegates to the convention at Milwaukee planned to arrive on a special train Monday afternoon.

Frank P. Walsh, who was chairman of the late federal industrial commission, is said to have consented to act as chairman of the conference. The list of speakers given out today includes Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, John Spargo, John Lind, Rose Pastor Stokes, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Clarence S. Darrow, Rabbi Stephen Wise, Frank Wolfe, Charles Pergler, Governor Burnquist of Minnesota and President John H. Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

NORWAY PUNISHES GERMAN SPIES

Christiania, Aug. 31.—Three German spies have been convicted at Bergen for supplying information to submarines regarding the sailing time of vessels which later were torpedoed. Captain Laven, an officer, Schwartz, German citizen, and Thorsen, a Norwegian, all were given terms in the penitentiary. Laven was sentenced to five years, Schwartz to four, and Thorsen to ten years imprisonment. Captain Laven admitted that he was under instructions of German authorities. He said that German subjects were forced to obey such orders.

Russia To Speed Up War Plans

Believes Moscow Conference Will Have Beneficial Results on Army

ALL PARTIES WILLING TO MAKE SACRIFICES

London, Aug. 31.—The Moscow conference will have a lasting effect upon the Russian nation and the conduct of the war will be speeded up, Professor Kerenky declared in an interview in Moscow on Wednesday. The government convened the Moscow conference, the Exchange Telegraph Co. report of the interview says, in order to get acquainted as fully as possible with the needs of the country to tell the representatives of all classes and creeds the truth concerning the crisis through which Russia is passing, and to impress upon the entire nation the necessity for united effort for the defense of the country and for securing liberty for the Russian people.

Feels Confident. The government, he added, feels confident that the object having been attained by a very considerable degree and is convinced that an overwhelming majority of the nation is deeply democratic and prepared to make sacrifices for liberty and defense of the country. All parties are willing to make mutual sacrifices to insure united effort.

BREAD WILL BE CHEAPER AS RESULT

License System for Flour Dealers Will Be Put Into Effect Soon

GOVERNMENT CONTROL NOT TO REACH SMALL DEALER

FLOUR TO DROP. Minneapolis, Aug. 31.—Best grades of flour probably will sell from $10.75 to $11.00 per barrel, as a result of fixing $2.20 as the price of wheat, according to statements by local flour manufacturers today. They were unable to make a definite estimate on account of lack of information as to the government's requirements. Fancy patents are now quoted at $12.25 per barrel. Doubt was expressed if the 5c bread could be produced with a profit to both manufacturers and bakers.

Washington, Aug. 31.—A reduction in the price of bread is in sight today as the result of the fixing of $2.20 as the price per bushel of the 1917 wheat crop. The license system for flour and bread dealers soon will be put into effect, and although not extending to the small dealer, the food administrator is expected to find a way to hold down bread prices. Members agreed that the price of $2.20 at Chicago will permit of a 14-cent loaf of bread for 5c, allowing a fair profit to both the flour manufacturer and the baker.

The wheat price was announced by President Wilson last night, after a committee headed by Dr. Harry Garfield, completed its three days' deliberations.

CHINESE PRESS SAYS NATION NOT FACTOR IN WAR

Pekin, Aug. 31.—The Chinese are urging that a foreign commission be sent to advise and assist the government of China in preparing plans for participation in the war. The Peking Times says. "China is not making any progress toward participation in the war, and as he labors under the guidance of the local diplomatic corps her force as a moral or martial participant will be nothing."

NORTH DAKOTA GRAIN TO MOVE AT UNDER $2.00

Experts Declare Established Standard at Chicago Will Make Average Here Low

UNJUST DISCRIMINATION. "I regard the fixing of the maximum price for wheat on a Chicago base as an unjust discrimination against the spring wheat states of the northwest," said Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor Hagan today. "The price should have been established on a Minneapolis basis, as that is where the spring wheat is marketed, and it is the spring wheat almost entirely which now is affected."

"Two dollars and twenty cents at Chicago means $2 or less for No. 1 hard, and for the great amount of wheat in this state which will grade No. 2 it means less. I am very much disappointed with the action of the committee."

Two dollar and twenty cent wheat in Chicago will mean that the bulk of North Dakota's 60,000,000-bushel wheat crop will move at less than $2 to the producer, said James A. Little, rate expert with the North Dakota railway commission today.

Fargo No. 1 wheat will sell for $2.09, freight off, and probably $2.01 cents with farmers' elevator and terminal profits and commissions deducted. The same No. 1 wheat at Beach will net the grower probably $1.95, and at Bismarck the price to the producer will be about $1.98.

The freight rate per bushel on wheat from Beach to Chicago is 17.1 cents, making the price of wheat on a $2.20 basis $2.03 freight paid at Beach. The government has proposed to handle wheat for a commission of one percent, which would indicate that 2.2 cents per bushel is the minimum commission which growers may expect to pay for the handling of their wheat. This would bring the price down to $2.01, with terminal or farmers' elevator commissions and charges for elevation, grading and handling still to be paid. A reasonable charge for this service is five to six cents the bushel, and if Beach farmer who delivers a load of wheat grading No. 1 will be fortunate if he gets $1.95 for it.

Not all of North Dakota's wheat, even though it weighs 60 pounds or better to the bushel, will grade No. 1, as the government regulations covering the presence of inseparable weed seed draw the line so fine that many growers cannot clean their wheat down to a point where it will take the highest grade. Such wheat, if the advice of J. A. McGovern, chief deputy inspector, is followed, will be sold by sample, on its flour-making qualities and not by an arbitrary grade.

The price differentials worked out by the food administration last night are:

- No. 1 dark hard winter, $2.24.
- No. 1 hard winter, basic, $2.20.
- No. 1 red winter, basic, $2.20.
- No. 1 yellow hard winter, $2.16.
- No. 1 soft red winter, $2.18.
- No. 1 dark northern spring, $2.24.
- No. 1 northern spring, basic, $2.20.
- No. 1 red spring, $2.18.
- No. 1 humpback, $2.10.
- No. 1 amber durum, $2.24.
- No. 1 durum, basic, $2.20.
- No. 1 red durum, $2.13.
- No. 1 red durum, $2.13.
- No. 1 hard white, basic, $2.20.
- No. 1 soft white, $2.18.
- No. 1 white club, $2.18.
- No. 2 of each grade is three cents less.
- No. 3, six cents less; No. 4, 10 cents less.

Relative market basis: Chicago, Galveston and New Orleans, the basic price; Kansas City and Omaha, five cents less than basic; Duluth and Minneapolis, three cents less; St. Louis, two cents less; New York, 10 cents more than basic; Baltimore and Philadelphia, nine cents more; Buffalo, five cents more. The basic grades are Nos. 1 hard winter, red winter and northern spring.

Disappointment General. Disappointment with the price fixed by the committee at Washington, news of which was received in a bulletin to The Tribune late last night, is general.

Frazier Not Surprised. Governor Frazier, while disappointed with the outcome of the conference, was not surprised. Warden P. S. Talcott, representing the chief executive at Washington, had advised (Continued on Page Eight.)

SUITE TO TEST ANTI-SUNDAY SHOOTING LAW

Appeal Heard for Supreme Court Will Settle Sportsmen's Important Question

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 31.—Whether North Dakota sportsmen are this fall to enjoy their time honored privilege of hunting on Sunday, in spite of a law passed by the last legislature expressly forbidding all manner of shooting on the Sabbath, is to be determined by a test suit now pending before the supreme court. A. F. Davis of Fargo was arrested on a charge of hunting on Sunday, arraigned before Judge Cole and found guilty. He immediately filed notice of appeal. Sportsmen of the state generally are said to be back of the action which, it is hoped, will clear up doubt now existing as to the interpretation to be placed on the state's blue laws. Attorney General Langer is said to have recently given his opinion to two different sportsmen to the effect that it would be the duty of deputy state wardens to enforce the Sunday shooting prohibition. Later he denied he had placed this responsibility upon the shoulders of the deputy game wardens and declared that the duty devolved upon the state's attorneys. The publicity given the matter has placed the attorney general in a rather bad hole. Sixty thousand sportsmen, a majority of them townspeople who have no time to hunt except on Sunday, believe he should not strictly enforce the Sunday hunting laws. Several times that many church people and farmers generally insist that the Sabbath shall not be desecrated and that it is the duty of the attorney general to uphold laws on the statute books regardless.

From Sioux City the family moved to Yankton, where he established the Dakotan, the territory's first newspaper. When the war broke out, Zebach was appointed captain of the Dakota militia which carried with it the title of governor, and as such he delivered messages to the famous mock legislature of the territory. Girls! Try This on Your Hands! Make a Lemon Beauty Cream Juice of lemons clears, softens and whitens the skin. Prepare a wonderful complexion lotion for a few cents!

"It seems that every girl and woman here is making lemon lotion," says a well-known druggist, and the reason is because at the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream they can prepare a full quart of a creamy lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of cold cream. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman has known for years that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness, and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothen and beautifier. Try it, girls! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy or toilet counter and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

TRADE MARK OF TREASON.

"I had rather have my son go to heaven in France than to hell in America," was the reply of a Dallas (Texas) father to one of the tribe of whispering traitors who ask: "Why should we send our boys to fight in a foreign land?"
If Germany should win the war in France she will lose little time in transporting her own peculiar variety of hell to America. Herr Zimmermann's little note, that got lost, shows she has been doing her best to bless us with Kultur even under the restricted circumstances so long imposed by the British navy and our allies who have been holding the western front.
Men who have invested their most precious possessions—their sons—in this war, naturally are not choice in their words when they reply to the insinuations of the traitors who begin: "I approve of everything the president has done BUT—" These phrases are the trade marks of treason—no true American has time for such talk now.

LET'S STAND BY THE PRESIDENT

Not long ago President Wilson was motoring along a Maryland road. In turning, his limousine backed off the highway into a mire covered with grass. The wheels of the machine sank almost out of sight.
A Baltimore man, driving a five-ton truck came along and pulled out the president's car. The secret service men offered to pay the owner of the truck, but he declined. As he turned to leave, he remarked:
"It is enough reward to be able to get President Wilson out of a hole."
It would be a fine thing for the country if everyone of us was animated by the spirit of that speech. Unfortunately there are certain unpatriotic senators in congress, certain pro-German editors, and orators whose motto seems to be:
"It is enough reward to be able to get President Wilson into a hole."
Their efforts are becoming more patent every day. They are occupying the record of the copperheads during the civil war. They spend their time trying to block everything the president is doing to win the war. They use up their energies in trying to make the war unpopular.
They use false and specious arguments. They resort to plain lying. They do things against their own country that no German would dare do against Germany.
Fortunately, their very treachery is proving its own undoing. The American people are beginning to take their measure. The American people are beginning to realize whether our latter-day copperheads are driving.
They realize that all this anti-war agitation, all this bit-the-administration preachment, is simply pro-Germanism in another form. And the bulk of the people are quietly standing by the president. Slowly but surely they are exerting pressure in his favor. They are showing their confidence in him. They are displaying their will to go through this war business thoroughly. They are realizing that it is a nasty job that has to be done and they want it done as quickly and as victoriously as possible.

In a very short time it is going to be a rather hazardous business to throw stones in the path of an administration trying its level best to fight democracy's battle.

His latest pictures most appropriately show the former czar of Russia to be up the stump.

END AUTOCRACY.

There is only one way to end the war—that is to end the German autocracy.

There is only one way to end the German autocracy—that is to disarm it.

The men who, above all others, know what constitutes the strength of the German autocracy are the Germans who have fought it. They are the small minority socialist faction formerly led by Liebknecht, now headed by Ledebour and Haase.

These men have presented a real basis for peace in the plan they have adopted as their platform. It is not surprising that the very first thing in their program is DISARMAMENT. And disarmament is the VERY LAST THING the German autocracy will agree to.

The only real basis for peace in the pope's recent proposal is DISARMAMENT.

DISARMAMENT is the keynote in every one of President Wilson's utterances on peace and the issues of the war.

But ACTUAL DISARMAMENT is meant—not a PROMISE to disarm, from a government that has shown it keeps no promises.

That is why President Wilson will continue to demand that the German people GIVE SECURITY in the shape of evacuation of France and Belgium, or the instant cessation of submarine warfare, before any peace conference meets. If that SECURITY is given, peace might come tomorrow on the understanding that DISARMAMENT—not merely the formation of peace leagues or contracts, but actual scrapping of the armies and navies—is to take place at once.

With the mailed fist cut off, the Hohenzollern dynasty would be hard put to it to survive even as a social ornament in Germany. The whole pan-German menace of a middle-European empire or Berlin-to-Bagdad would evaporate as the armed forces of Prussia melted away.

DISARMAMENT is the key to world peace. Peace will never come until Germany agrees to disarm, and gives actual security for the instant fulfillment of the promise.

Observe this vital difference between the REAL peace plan of the REAL German socialists, and the fake "no annexations, no indemnities" program put forward here and in Russia by the agents of kaiserism.
This thing is a mere sham, designed to save the Hohenzollern autocracy and preserve the Prussian military system under the sonorous pretense of "leaving every nation to work out its own destiny."

Russia for a time was duped, and the price she paid was fearful. The debt is not all liquidated yet.

The best proof of the pro-Prussianism of the American pacifists and majority socialists is that their "peace plan" is directly opposed to the "peace plan" of the real socialists in Germany.

L. Follette's resolution and the whole output of pacifist spouters in this country coincides exactly with the program of the "socialists" in Germany, who are denounced by the real socialists there as "kaiser socialists."

Evidently there are Germans who know the breed—even if Americans find some difficulty in spotting it.

MEMORIZE THIS, PACIFISTS!

Who counsels peace at this momentous hour

When God hath given deliverance to the oppressed

And to the injured power?

Who counsels peace, when vengeance like a flood

Rolls on, no longer now to be repressed:

When innocent blood

From the four corners of the world cries out:

For justice upon one accused head?

Woe, woe to all, both woe and endless shame

If this heroic land

False to her feelings and unspotted fame

Holds back the olive to the Tyrant's hand.

Down with the Tyrant: with the murderer down.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Robert Hollis, one time sea captain, who tells the story, is a guest on Gerald Carrington's yacht, Esmeralda. It is supposed to be a "stags" party and Hollis is surprised on discovering a woman, who evidently wishes to remain unknown, aboard.

CHAPTER II.—Hollis, the next night, succeeds in having an interview with the woman. She tells him her name is Vera.

CHAPTER III.—Carrington, his guests of the coming war, and that he is engineering a copper poe.

CHAPTER IV.—The yacht is sunk in a collision and Hollis and McCann, millionaire, and one of the party.

CHAPTER V.—Hollis and McCann rescue Vera and leave the ship in a small boat.

CHAPTER VI.—Hollis and Vera become friendly, though he is unaware of her identity.

CHAPTER VII.—McCann refuses to submit to Hollis' authority, and the enforces it.

CHAPTER VIII.—The castaways are taken by a ship, the Indian Chief, which takes them aboard.

CHAPTER IX.—The Indian Chief has recently been struck by lightning and is almost a wreck. All the officers are dead. Hollis meets the owner, who tells him the vessel has a cargo of ammunition, consigned to the German government.

CHAPTER X.—Hollis consents to take charge of ship and continue voyage. Vera recognizes an old friend in Robert Bascom, owner of the Indian Chief.

CHAPTER XI.—Some dissatisfaction among the crew quickly develops, and Hollis seizes his officers.

CHAPTER XII.—McCann wants to return to New York, and tries to corrupt the crew.

CHAPTER XIII.—Hollis finds himself forced to confine McCann to a cabin.

CHAPTER XIV.—Vera and Hollis agree that for Bascom's sake the ship must be taken to its destination. Hollis learns that Vera is Gerald Carrington's daughter.

CHAPTER XV.—The crew, realizing danger of capture by allied warships, evince disinclination to continue the voyage.

CHAPTER XVI.—Leaders of the crew disarm Hollis and make him a prisoner.

CHAPTER XVII.—In a fight with the mutineers Hollis is badly hurt. On recovering consciousness he realizes that he must submit, though, he is the only navigator on board, he is in position to make terms with McCann. He is made a prisoner.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Compromise and an Interruption. Except for the absence of the regular officers from their stations, I should not have known any special change had taken place on board the ship. Outwardly everything appeared about as usual as I emerged behind Liverpool, with McCann trailing behind. The latter paused to insert the key into the lock of the door, and I indulged in one swift glance about the apartment.

"Bascom occupies his own stateroom," Liverpool nodded ungraciously enough.

"And Miss Carrington retains hers?" "We are not here to be interviewed, Hollis," broke in McCann sharply. "Go along on deck, and keep your tongue to yourself."

Realizing that silence was my best weapon, I made no response, but climbed the stairs. The decks were clean—had evidently been scrubbed that morning, and nowhere could I perceive any signs that the ship was in the hands of mutineers. Liverpool gripped my shoulder.

"Up the ladder with you," he ordered. "Here's too little time left for gauding about here."

There were two men at the wheel, although one could have attended to the service, as the ship was at half-speed, and the sea far from heavy. I recognized both faces, but couldn't recall their names; the shorter fellow, deeply pitted, exhibited a fresh scar where I had struck him with my boot-heel the night before. He grinned good-naturedly, and pointed to the bruised flesh, as I caught his eye. White was evidently the temporary officer in charge, and the brutality of his face was clearly revealed in the bright light as he leaned against the rail. However, I had scarcely time to more than glance about, as the sun was already at the zenith. The others stood around silent, watching as I figured out our position on the back of an old envelope. I took my time at it, not only from my own anxiety to be accurate, but also because of other thoughts in my mind, yet the calculation was completed at last, and I lifted my eyes to McCann's gaze.

"Well," he said.

I gave him the figures.

"You are sure this is correct?" "As sure as I can be; the chronometer hasn't been corrected since the ship left Baltimore; except for possible variations on that account, the figures are right. Spread out the chart, and I'll show you where we are within ten miles. When did you furl the sails?"

"After we started up the engines again; while we had all hands on deck."

"Well," I announced, after a moment of measuring, "that would tally pretty close with the figuring. Our present position is just about here, where I put the red cross."

McCann took the compasses from my hand, and began to measure distances. "Two hundred and ten miles to the northern extremity of Newfoundland—that's that!"

"A trifling more, I should say,"

White and Liverpool might be brutal enough, but surely not Fergus McCann.

"Why not Fergus McCann?" "His education, his former life, the civilization in which he has been reared; he has lived among gentlemen."

"Gentlemen!" she echoed the word in scorn. "His associates have been principally gamblers and rounders. He is notorious in New York, and his money alone gives him entrance to decent circles. He doesn't know what the word gentleman means. If there is treachery behind this, it will be the plan of Fergus McCann."

"You know him better than I?" "I know of him longer; I have heard more tales, yet surely you saw what he was in the boat?"

"You believe, then, the intention is to scuttle the vessel?" "Yes, I do."

"And leave us helpless on board?" "Yes, Mr. Hollis."

I drew a deep breath, at this direct verification of my own secret suspicion.

"So do I," I returned in a whisper, "although I had no thought of telling you."

"You have some plan, then? You have considered what to do?" "No; hardly that. There will be two days, at least, before we shall be close enough to the coast for them to take to the boats. Much may happen within that time; we may be spoken by some other vessel, even overhauled by a warship, and manned by a prize crew."

"You hope for this?" "St. Johns is a naval base; the closer we approach the harbor the more apt we are to encounter a British cruiser."

Her fingers grasped my sleeve.

"But, Mr. Hollis, if all these hopes fail, and there should be no rescue, is there not something we can do? Must we remain here helpless, just waiting for death to come?"

I took the little hands in mine tenderly, and, with an effort, controlled my voice.

"Perhaps so, but we cannot be too cautious. Our only chance is to retain our freedom, and arouse no suspicion that we are plotting together. Can you learn where the others are confined, and get the word to me?"

"Yes," she said. "I—I think I can."

"What is it you think you can do, Miss Carrington?" she said a voice quietly.

McCann stood in the open passageway leading to the steward's pantry, less than fifteen feet distant, a satirical smile on his lips, as he observed our conversation. How long he had been there, and what portion of our conversation he had overheard, I had no means of knowing, and for the instant I stood speechless, my brain a blank. Not so with Vera. With a laugh, ringing out as naturally as though in full appreciation of some sudden gleam of humor, she withdrew her hands from mine, turned and faced him, executing a mocking curtsy.

"Hardly fair, Mr. McCann," she said, "to steal upon us like that."

"Perhaps not," he answered grimly, "but just now I am privileged to do as I please on board this ship. Answer my question—what is it you think you can do?"

"Perhaps an answer will be embarrassing."

"Stop the play-acting," he burst forth, advancing about the stair rail. "What were you talking about? I want a direct answer!"

The girl's long lashes shaded her eyes, but there was not the slightest falter to her voice.

"Captain Hollis," she said softly, almost regretfully, "had asked me if I thought I could learn to—to like him, and I said I—I thought I could. That—that was all."

McCann stared at the innocent, downcast face as though he half believed the words her lips uttered were deliberate lies; then he laughed mirthlessly.

"I see," he said with sarcasm. "No misfortune among other lines is sufficient to interrupt Mr. Hollis' love-making. My congratulations, captain, on even this measure of success."

The hot blood flushed my face, not so much at the words as the tone with which they were uttered. They conveyed to me a deliberate insult, tingling with a memory of the purpose he charged me with during our last interview. He had not quite understood me before, but now he felt convinced that under all the veneer I was his kind; and he instantly felt that he knew just how to deal with my case.

"Your congratulations are appreciated for what they are worth," I answered, unable to wholly restrain myself. "But we will let the discussion end here."

"Oh, will we? Well, perhaps you will recall that circumstances have changed since our last talk. I am no longer captain of this ship—I am; and I will say what I please on board. The first thing I propose doing is to tell Miss Carrington who and what you are."

Her eyes flashed over my face, then sought his.

"Do I understand," she asked clearly, "that I have been before a topic of conversation between you? What was the occasion?"

McCann laughed, not in the least embarrassed, and evidently convinced that his position was sufficiently strong to give him a clear advantage.

"Hollis' natural modesty prevents his answering, but as a disinterested party, I will take upon myself to explain. The truth is I comprehended from the first the real object of this fellow in seeking your friendship. I even compelled him to acknowledge that your father's money was the main attraction."

I stepped forward, unable longer to restrain the action.

"You dog of a liar!" I said fiercely.

"I know you are armed, but—"

"Wait, Captain Hollis," and her fingers caught my arm. "This matter involves me, and I wish to hear the facts. Go on, please."

McCann edged into my face, but kept on talking, his griping his revolver.

"You Dog of a Liar!"

"There is not much to tell," he went on, almost faintly. "I saw exactly how things were going before we left the boat. I knew Hollis' reputation ashore, and determined to warn you of his purpose, but had no opportunity. Besides, I felt you had so poor an opinion of me that probably you would not listen."

"You were greatly mistaken, Mr. McCann," she said pleasantly. "I would have gladly received your advice. You were my father's friend."

I could read the man's surprise in his face. The graciousness of her words was a shock, yet his egotism made him instantly her victim.

"You mean you trusted me? That you would have listened?"

"Most assuredly. How could you think otherwise? I knew you were not yourself in the boat, and the treatment to which you were subjected was brutal. I owed my life to you equally with Captain Hollis, and am very grateful. I have never forgotten that you have been a guest in our home, a business associate of my father's. Why should I not have confidence in you?"

I looked at her in amazement, but her eyes never met mine. What did this mean? Was the girl acting a part? Was she endeavoring to deceive him, or was she speaking now in deadly earnest? Nothing in her manner, or in the tone of her voice, gave me a clue. As for McCann, the very expression of his face pictured his delight, his conviction of her sincerity. It was almost too good to be true, yet his was not a nature to doubt his own attractiveness.

"I—I—you surprise me," he stammered, absolutely forgetting my presence. "I—I assure you I was actuated by the highest motives in all my efforts. My duty was to you, and your father."

He turned and faced me, the bully in him surging to the surface.

"I will converse with Miss Carrington alone."

To resist would have been utter foolishness. I could see the gleam of the gun in his hand, and realized that he only required an excuse to use it. More, there was nothing in the expression of the girl's face to inspire me to resistance. She did not even glance toward me, or exhibit the slightest interest.

With hands clenched in impotent rage, not even venturing a reply, I stepped backward. As I crossed the threshold McCann closed the door, and I heard the key turn in the lock. Trembling still with anger, and flayed by the strange action of the girl, I sank back upon the stool, realizing my utter helplessness. All she had done and said appeared so natural it never really occurred to me once that she might be acting a part, seeking in this way to gain McCann's confidence, in order to win from him the information we required. It was only as I sat there in silence, brooding over every detail, that this possible conception began to slowly dawn upon my mind. That she could trust the man in any way was practically impossible, for he had revealed to her his true character in so many ways the memory could not be blotted out.

As the full knowledge of this truth grew apparent, I was able to view all that had occurred later in a different light. She had simply accepted her one chance; had grasped with womanly intuition the single weapon left at her command. Girl as she was in years, her experience in the world had been that of a woman, and she instinctively realized her power—the power of wealth, of beauty, and of youth. It had been beautifully done, so deftly accomplished as to deceive even me. Aye! and the method had succeeded with McCann. I recalled the expression of surprise, of gratification, of awakened pride on the man's face. He had no power of resistance left; he was already putty in her hands.

True, but would he remain so? The game she played was a dangerous one; if she ventured too far she would discover the brute lurking in him still. And he had the power, the physical power, to wreak vengeance once he suspected deceit. And there was no one to help her if she made a single false step—absolutely no one; she was a lamb among wolves. Those fellows would never release me again, not for a moment. I would be compelled to take observations, to calculate position, to trace our sailing course on the chart, but not for an instant would I be left again unguarded, either on deck or in the cabin. McCann would see to that.

The afternoon passed, dragging its weary hours. Nothing happened to relieve the monotony and dread of solitude. No one approached the door of the stateroom, not even to offer me food, and my ears were able to distinguish no sound of movement in the main cabin. Occasionally footsteps passed along the deck overhead, but once or twice I heard the voice of Liverpool sing out some order to the men forward. The sun sank, flaring glancing across the water, and telling me the ship held to its southwest course, but the ocean, so far as I could see, remained desolate, the horizon unbroken by a gleam of sail, or smudge of smoke. No echo of a cry reached me from any lookout aloft. The vessel proceeded quietly, no effort being made, apparently, to achieve speed. I judged our rate would not exceed eight knots, and decided there was either a scarcity of men in the stokehole, or else they were conserving fuel to attain greater speed during the hours of darkness. The bright sunlight began to fade into a purple dusk.

Albert Grass Only Native American Prince in Service

Albert Grass, described by his captain, A. S. Welch, as the only native American prince in the United States military service, enjoys another distinction. He is the prize pitcher of Co. I's crack baseball team, and, as Captain Welch states, "he's a south-paw on either side," delivering equally well with his right or his left hand. Albert Grass is a grandson of Chief Justice John Grass, ranking chief of all the Sioux. Young Hawk, who is being tried out at present as another promising Indian player. He is an Arickara and although his people and the Sioux were ancient enemies, he gets along very nicely with Grass. Co. I's team is getting plenty of practice, meeting the Second regiment band team from Harvey on the capital city diamond daily. Wurm, a former Kintyre baseball star, is proving a strong man for Co. I on the mound.

Plenty of Yarn at Red Cross Headquarters

There is no shortage of yarn at the Bismarck Red Cross headquarters but there is a shortage of knitters. Through the cooperation of the merchants of the capital city stores plenty of yarn has been supplied for the Bismarck chapter while other chapters have been tied up for the want of material. There is also a supply of knitting needles in the local stores.

Many have responded to the call for knitters but the large order for the various articles will take more workers to complete the list before cold weather.

Instructions from Washington have been received asking that all articles finished be shipped there at once. The capital city chapter has supplied everything asked for up to the present time and this splendid record must not be broken now. A great campaign for knitters is on hand and all the women of Bismarck are asked to join in the work.

The Young Woman's society of St. Mary's cathedral met at the headquarters last evening and took their first instructions in knitting. A large representation of members attended and the girls made a splendid showing. The chapter asks that more young women's organizations aid in work. Arrangements can be made for teaching knitting during the evening at the headquarters.

Boys at Fort To Have Corn Roast; Dance Planned

Sunday will be known as "corn roast" day at Fort Lincoln. The Women's Auxiliary to Company A is again going to show their generosity by supplying the 700 soldiers at the fort with corn and butter for a big feed Sunday. This patriotic society of women are not only mothering the boys of Company A but are taking the responsibility of supplying enough corn for all the boys. When this is done the fund will be low and the auxiliary is asking that more of the women of Bismarck join them to help with the work and expense. Since Company I has been formed the women think they must help it and the great amount of work which it involves will need more help.

The auxiliary is not going to stop doing for the boys after the corn and butter is delivered but is planning a really society affair for members of Companies A and I. It is to be a dancing party and reception so the boys can meet the capital city people. One of the large halls will be secured and one of the big military social functions will be staged. It might be termed a farewell party, but as many of the members of the auxiliary are mothers of soldiers the word carries with it too much significance.

A special meeting of the auxiliary will be held next week to complete arrangements.

To Attend St. Catherine's.

Miss Helen Lucas, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. A. W. Lucas of Avenue A, will leave for St. Paul in two weeks to enter St. Catherine's academy. Miss Lucas is a member of the 1917 graduating class of the high school.

Dinner at Club House.

Sheriff and Mrs. J. P. French are having as their dinner guests this evening at the Country Club, Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Smyth, Mrs. and Mr. P. L. Lehart, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orr, Miss Orr and Mrs. French's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Falkenstein.

Leaves for Kentucky.

Lou Robinson of Zumbro Falls, Minn., who has been in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Corwin of Avenue F, left last evening for Paducah, Ky., where he will teach manual training in the schools of that place. His mother, Mrs. J. J. Robinson, will make a more extended visit here and at Hazelton before returning home.

Former Teachers Returning.

Among the former teachers of the public school arriving in the city to resume work next Tuesday are: Katherine Denford of Crothersville, Ind.; Mary Hinkley, Mt. Vernon, Ia.; Frances Mallory, Ellendale; Blenda Anderson, Wabasha; Mae Ruthert, Fargo; Eva Marks, Moorhead; Mary Boyson, Sheldon; Zenia Wetherill, Carson, Ia.; and Jessie McLeod, Grand Forks.

McVeys Leave Tonight.

President F. L. McVey of the state university, with Mrs. McVey and children, Virginia, Janet and Frank, Jr., will leave this evening for Washington, D. C., where they will make an extended sojourn. President McVey expects to return to Grand Forks for the opening of the university before going to Lexington, Ky., where he has been elected to the presidency of the University of Kentucky. The McVeys will place their children in school in Washington. Mrs. McVey will remain in the east with the children until going to Lexington.

Entertains Light Bearers.

Miss Clara Blumer entertained the Little Light Bearers of the McCabe church Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. The little guests ranged in ages from a month to seven years. A luncheon was served in the dining room of the church and the table was decorated with tapers which are the emblem of the society. The children's mite boxes were opened and the money turned over to the society. Miss Blumer was assisted by Mrs. J. C. Moore and Mrs. W. C. Cash.

DR. HUTCHESON RETURNS FROM EXTENDED TRIP

Dr. W. J. Hutcheson of the McCabe Methodist church returned Thursday from an extended trip through Maryland and Virginia, spending considerable time in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Hutcheson, who has been spending her vacation at the lakes near Fernham, Minn., accompanied him home.

Dr. Hutcheson says the war situation in the east has taken on a real war-like appearance. That thousands and thousands of troops can be seen moving to the various cantonments, and that the railroad lines are being used for their transportation, dividing about half of their service with the government. Dr. Hutcheson says the middle west is still dreaming about the war while to the eastward it is a reality.

Rev. Hutcheson will preach both morning and evening in the McCabe church Sunday.

ACTIVITIES OF RED CROSS IN STATE

A meeting will be held Friday evening in Casselton to reorganize the Red Cross chapter, which was formed some time ago. Following the reorganization the society will become a branch of the Cass county association. The temporary officers are: Chairman, Dr. E. P. Rowe; vice chairman, Mrs. O. T. Sprake; secretary, Mrs. William McRoberts; treasurer, L. W. Correll. The society has been working three afternoons a week for the Bismarck section and on articles for the national society. More workers are needed and many are expected to respond after the reorganization.

A Red Cross branch has been organized at Havana, N. D., with J. E. Russell as chairman; Mrs. E. J. Leach vice chairman; Mrs. T. J. Pfeiffer secretary and C. E. Castle treasurer. An auxiliary has been formed at Mavel to the Grand Forks chapter.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS IN WAR TIME WORK

The attention of the country is being drawn to the remarkable war activity of the Camp Fire Girls who are showing themselves to be among Uncle Sam's most faithful workers. President Wilson and Food Director Hoover have already shown their great interest in the work these girls are performing and other branches of the government war service are coming to realize to what great extent the Camp Fire Girls can help in the present time of stress.

Thousands of dollars, earned by giving entertainments, by soliciting and performing valuable service have poured in upon the Red Cross from the Camp Fire Girls. They are even helping to swell the national treasury, for a number of organizations have clubbed together to buy liberty bonds.

Probably no other organization in the country has taken up war garden cultivation to such an extent as have the Camp Fire Girls. One of the finest examples of this work is found in Havana, N. D., where the cultivation is being carried on under the direction of the agricultural extension department of the University of Illinois.

The national surgical dressing committee is receiving aid from the thousands of busy Camp Fire Girls in every state of the union, who are making bandages and boxes of surgical dressings for the soldiers and sailors. In every branch of the war activity except actual fighting the Camp Fire Girls are to be found giving their time and labor to help win the war for democracy.

The local camp fire groups have been assisting with the work of the Red Cross chapter here. A number of the girls have sewed constantly on the various articles and each meeting time has been devoted to the work.

One of Bismarck's First White Women Notes Anniversary

Mrs. Phoebe Marsh, one of the first white women to settle in Bismarck, yesterday quietly celebrated the 50th anniversary of her arrival in the capital city. When she rode into Bismarck on Aug. 30, 1872, the town was a rude collection of shacks and tents housing a few soldiers, track men employed on the Northern Pacific grade, Indians and half breeds, traders and gamblers. Buffalo roamed the hills near the city; killings were of frequent occurrence; Bismarck was the last frontier—a bridge across the Missouri was barely dreamed of. She has resided in Bismarck continuously almost half a century. She is a splendidly preserved woman of unusual intelligence and vivacity, and she is being depended upon to assist Bismarck with the celebration of its semicentennial in 1922.

BUSINESS FIRM TENDERS EMPLOYEES DINNER

The A. W. Lucas company department store, of which Mayor A. W. Lucas is the head, tendered the employees a dinner last evening at the Grand Pacific hotel. Twenty-five of the force were guests.

Last night's dinner is a forerunner of a series of monthly dinners to be given the employees when the business of the store will be discussed by the various department heads and managers.

Mayor Lucas presided and in his introductory speech explained that the dinners were planned to discuss better business methods. Christian Lucas, son of Mayor Lucas and business associate, gave a 15-minute talk on "Cooperation of Employer and Employee." Miss Inez Jones, head of the millinery department, spoke of the "General Welfare of the Work of the Store."

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF W. C. T. U. SEPT. 21-24

The annual state convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Valley City September 21-24. Miss Anna A. Gordon of Evanston, Ill., national president of the organization has been secured to address the convention. Miss Gordon has spent the last six months in Washington, D. C. working in the interests of the national prohibition movement, and will have much valuable information to relate. Arrangements are being made to have another national worker speak.

The various churches throughout the state are endeavoring to increase the membership prior to the state convention. Work has been going on along this line during the summer and now that the convention time is drawing near a special drive will be made to accomplish this object.

The state headquarters have 1,000 comfort bags completed for the soldiers of the state and are now ready for distribution. The state headquarters have been supplying the material and furnishing for the bags and the branches throughout the state have been making them.

The state officers are: President, Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson; Mrs. Abbie W. H. East, vice president; Mrs. Kate M. Willard, recording secretary; Mrs. Minnie Howe, treasurer; Mrs. Barbara H. Wylie of Pownessent, corresponding secretary. The latter has charge of the program for the state convention.

READERS' COLUMN

BISMARCK WILL CELEBRATE.

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 30, 1917.

Editor, Bismarck Tribune:

During the last few weeks the Minneapolis papers have been overflowing with news about the loyalty and patriotic celebrations that are taking place in the towns and cities of Minnesota. Everywhere the spirit of patriotism is shown with parades, programs, picnics, etc.

Why do we not hear of anything like that in North Dakota? Why does Bismarck not show its appreciation of the boys who are daily drilling and getting ready to share in the world's war and defend the flag of the free?

In a few days Burleigh's quota of men for the drafted army will leave. Has Bismarck arranged any program or celebration to bid the boys farewell? (No!) Will Bismarck, who leads the northwest in other activities, fall down in this and have to be led. Surely the people of Bismarck are as patriotic as any other people in the United States and therefore should arrange a monstrous "loyalty day" celebration in which all may take part and show our appreciation to the boys who are representing us in the great fight for freedom.

All These Pictures Officially Passed by the Censor for Publication

Here you see Sammy in his leisure moments at the actual fighting front in France. The cavalryman above has established an entente with a fair daughter of our sister republic, France. In the upper left a Sammy who speaks French is telling a group of villagers about Uncle Sam's entry into the field of war—he is beset with eager questions. French and American infantrymen are fraternizing in the picture in the upper right, and the poilus are explaining the mechanism of the Lebel rifle. In the middle picture at the left are American fighters at their midday meal, and below a Yankee is saluting a newfound French friend in the sign language that means "All right, Old Pal, I'll be over after lunch."

SPORT GOSSIP

Ames, Ia., August 30.—Ideal training for a prospective soldier is provided in athletics in the opinion of Clyde Williams, director of athletics at Iowa State (Ames) college and this he believed especially true of football.

"We are going to have athletics this fall and winter if we have to go in the hole financially for every contest we enter," Williams said.

Completion of the football schedule has enabled Williams to devote his attention to survey of the football situation, getting a line on the probable material Coach Charles Mayser will have at his command this fall. Mayser is expected to return to Ames about September 1, and this will give him two weeks to get acquainted with the situation before school opens.

Enlistments in the fighting forces of the country and graduation have taken a number of last year's stars, and even Captain-elect Denfield may be lost to the 1917 eleven it is said, although he has not definitely announced his plans.

Graduation took four good men—Packer, Sloss, Jones and Perkins. Davis and Paige have entered military service, the former in the coast artillery and the latter in the aviation corps. Davis recently received a commission at the Fort Snelling, Minn., officers' training camp. There is some uncertainty as to the plans of several others.

CORRESPONDENCE

HEBRON

A road construction gang, using a big tractor and a Russell grader, have been grading several of the streets in Hebron during the past few days.

Mrs. C. Olson of Chicago left for her home Wednesday morning after an extended visit with her sisters, Mrs. E. L. Carlton and Mrs. W. H. Irtich.

Last Tuesday forenoon Theo. J. Bolke, who was working on a scaffold at the new residence of Jacob Halpern, fell about twenty feet striking the ground on his head and left shoulder. He was unconscious for several hours and was injured internally as well as having a fractured rib. His condition has been steadily growing better and at the present time there is hope that he will recover speedily.

Sunday afternoon occurred the funeral of Mrs. Charles H. Elder, who passed away Saturday morning at her home in the Haymarket. Services were held at the home at two o'clock and in the Congregational church at three. The church was crowded to overflowing with the large number of friends of the bereaved family who were present to pay their last respects to the departed friend and neighbor.

The body was interred in the new Congregational cemetery. Rev. N. Hass conducted the services.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Robertson returned Friday night after a ten day visit with the Robertson family in Willow City.

A number of loads of wheat have been received in the elevators in Hebron, all of which proved to be of high quality.

Work has begun on the construction of the second story of the Fink building. The walls and roof of the Bratzel building are completed and work has begun on the interior. W. H. Irtich's new residence is rapidly nearing completion. The new Steingraber residence is enclosed, ready for work on the interior. Mike Moss' trucker's house is almost ready for occupancy. Other houses are being erected in Hebron, in fact, "Growth as Usual," seems to be Hebron's motto this year.

Mrs. S. A. Keeler left Wednesday for a visit with friends at Judson.

Mrs. and Mrs. C. F. Ewald and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krauth left Saturday by auto for a trip to Yellowstone Park. Mr. and Mrs. Ewald will continue thru to Washington where they will look after the harvesting of their crop of apples.

Mrs. Victor Dichtenmueller and family left Sunday for her home in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, after a visit with relatives in Hebron.

The Hebron Fire Department held a meeting in the fire hall Tuesday evening at which all the officers were reelected for another term. A committee was appointed to interview the city council regarding the purchase of another chemical engine and an electric fire whistle to be installed somewhere in the center of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Irtich and family and Mrs. C. Olson took a trip to the Badlands last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. E. Langheim visited relatives here during the past week.

The Congregational Sunday School was entertained Wednesday at a picnic held in Rehm's grove, an annual treat to the children by Mr. F. D. Morford. About sixty people attended the affair which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Miss Mary Walker of Harmon, N. D., is visiting with Mrs. E. O. Murray.

Don't Lose Your Temper.

Calendars Printed In Spanish Convert John to Home Trade

Charlson, N. D., Aug. 31.—John Lomas is Charlson's biggest booster for home trade. Some time ago he had an opportunity to buy from an unknown printing concern a big batch of calendars very cheaply. He bought. The calendars came this week, and John couldn't tell by reading whether the month was December or June. He went to a friend in his quandary, and the latter discovered that the calendars were printed in Spanish. In McKenzie county there may be a dozen former Texas Rangers who can read Spanish, but that is all. John doesn't believe the calendars will do.

The Outbursts of Everett True By Condo

WORTH OF A SIMPLE RULE

Value Demonstrated by Novel's Heroine Who Believed No Situation Justified a Wrong Deed.

The heroine of a novel of more than usual interest, by adhering persistently to a maxim, saves several persons from the consequences of their weaknesses and brings them to her own point of view in a truly astonishing way. The nub of her philosophy is that if you do right, only good will come of it and she proceeds from the first chapter to work practical proof of it among a circle of people bent on indulging their own wills and whims rather than doing right.

Some simple rule of conduct is a convenience for everybody, says the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times. It may easily become a personal motto and living up to it a fetish. That was the case with the heroine of fiction; doing right was almost an obsession with her, but for all that she was by no means dull and the opposite of insipid. She believed no situation justified a wrong deed and none was so bad that a good one couldn't improve it. So she persisted in doing right when everybody else in the book—save one, of course—seemed determined to do wrong. But she proved the worth of a simple rule in governing daily contact with people.

BLACK PEARL OF BRISBANE

Giant Jewel Seems to Exude an Air of Unfathomable Mystery, Writes a Correspondent.

A certain air of mystery seems to attach to a black pearl, as much from its rarity as from any other reason. "There is at present in Brisbane," writes a correspondent from that Queensland city, "a very fine specimen of black pearl, which has been brought from the northern pearling grounds of the state by the owner, who is also the owner of a large pearling fleet. It is spherical in shape and jet black in color, and it seems to exude an air of unfathomable mystery. One felt when looking at it that it should form the pivotal point of some great tragedy, a thing which should be the basis of a cycle of weird events, involving the lives and happiness of men and women. The notorious Hope diamond must have inspired somewhat similar feelings.

"So far this black gem has had a very uneventful career since its discovery in the shell of the oyster responsible for its production. However, it has a long time ahead of it if it is anxious to live in history. The probability is that it will ultimately find its way to the collection of some enthusiast on the lookout for curios of great value."

When Water Boils.

The temperature of boiling water may be varied by circumstances. What we call boiling is the passage to the surface of the vapor which forms at the bottom of a vessel of water when it is heated. The upward passage of the vapor through the water causes a commotion of bubbling which we call boiling. But this condition does not always indicate the same degree of heat. Water with common salt in it requires more heat to make it boil than pure water because the salt retards the rising of the vapor. The pressure of the atmosphere affects the boiling point. At sea level the boiling point is 212 degrees, but at a considerable distance above sea level it is less and at a distance below sea level it is more than 212 degrees. At the City of Mexico, 7,471 feet above sea level, water boils at 198 degrees of heat; at Quito, 9,341 feet high, it boils at 194 degrees, and in the Himalayas, at a height of 18,000 feet, it boils at 186 degrees, or 32 degrees less than at sea level. It would be difficult to make water boil at the bottom of a shaft several miles deep. In elevated places many substances cannot be cooked by boiling; water will bubble and boil at a degree of heat sufficient for cooking.

The Undergraduate Speaks.

I find that there is a cause for the lack of individuality in undergraduate theses, a cause other than the mere absence of ideas in undergraduates. It may be traced even to the doors of classrooms and to the chairs of college professors. For, in college, literature is not a thing of the spirit but of the mind, and you will encounter above the door of the English department the scholar's first and last commandment, "Beware of your emotions."

There is no escape for those who enter, so have done with your adolescence, which has given you to understand beauty and freshness of phrase. You are free to face now with form, with technique, and with the history of literature.—Atlantic.

One Day's Picture.

Each day frames its picture; work, play, laughter, ennui, hoping, forgetting, wasting and conserving. Each day has its shifting point of sight, its interesting study in the angles of perspective, its high lights and low tones. And then tomorrow comes and yesterday is painted out, but the experience and study of yesterday count in the work of today. The artist is more of an artist. The result is always mental and spiritual and never material.

That Aggressive Frankness.

"Blighas prices himself on being absolutely candid."

"But he isn't. He never takes pleasure in telling the truth unless it is something disagreeable."

Hot Stuff.

Recently a Frenchman invented an electric furnace in which all the operations of making and refining glass are carried on continuously with the same source of heat.

Or Trouble.

"Some rich men," said Uncle Eben, "don't seem able to do nuffin' wif deir money 'ce,' to buy deirselves a whole lot 'o loneliness."—Washington Star.

Afraid to Risk It.

"What made your wife decide to give up that auto trip to California?" "She happened to hear somebody say that travel broadens one."

The Species.

"Are there any on Mars, Pop?" "Some people say so, I say son." "Then if there are Jags, too, I suppose they are bloodsuckers."

WHEN LIFE WAS ADVENTURE

Better Knowledge of Way Nature Works Has Removed Uncertainties That Once Exhilarated.

An old negro man, working for a family, was observed not to eat the fish that was served at dinner. "What's the matter with the fish, auntie?" the mistress inquired. "Ah don't see how you dare eat it," she replied. "You neva saw its head. How you know but what it had the head of a human?"

Once in a while we get back that way to the world our ancestors lived in. What a wonderful adventure life must have been to them! They never knew when they might see a human-headed fish, or a centaur or a dragon. They wouldn't have been surprised at a dryad stepping out of a tree.

There must have been a certain exhilaration about that kind of uncertainty that we miss nowadays. A better knowledge of the way nature works has taken a good deal of the childlike romance out of life.

We get a faint reflection of it in the mild superstitions that most of us cling to—in our beliefs in magic numbers, in the harm of seeing the new moon over the left shoulder, in the influence of the dark of the moon. One reason for the charm of Greek literature is that it was written by men who were close enough to the primitive so that its beliefs were still fresh and vital with them.—Exchange.

WHAT SPY MAY DO IN WAR

Ethics of "Profession" Make It Permissible for Him to Wear the Uniform of the Enemy.

Imitating the bugle-calls of the enemy is quite legitimate; so is the wearing of their uniforms, with one reservation. A soldier may not fire on the enemy while so attired. But he may advance or retreat, build bridges and perform any other military operation short of actual fighting, using the uniform as a means of deception.

A soldier may spy as much as he likes. If he worms his way into the enemy's lines he is only doing his duty, and, if captured there, may not be punished beyond being taken an ordinary prisoner, provided he is wearing a uniform. If he is in any kind of disguise he may be shot.

In the course of his spying he may kill as many of the enemy as he can. When he approaches the sentries he may stab them, in the dark, or use any trick to throw them off their guard ex-

Bismarck's Leading Department Store

RECORD MUST BE KEPT OF FOOD IN TRANSIT TODAY

All Firms Having Commercial Stocks in North Dakota Shall Make Returns

All firms having commercial stocks of foods are required today to make returns to the bureau of markets, department of agriculture, at Washington showing what they have on hand or in transit on this date. Blank food survey schedules in this state may be obtained from the office of the field agent of marketing at the state agricultural college. Each blank has spaces for recording stocks of 18 principal commodities, including the chief cereal foods, meats, lard, oils, fish, sugar and condensed or evaporated milk. Elevators, mills, dealers, cannery, bakers, packers, manufacturers, jobbers, packers, grocers, hotels, department and general stores dealing in groceries and other types of business to the number of about 100 are required to report their stocks not later than September 10, though an extension of time may be granted by the secretary of agriculture on special request, if a good reason can be shown.

Survey is Preliminary.
The survey being made today insofar as it concerns the supplies of 18 principal foodstuffs is a preliminary one, to be followed by a more complete one after the crops are harvested. For the complete schedule the blanks call for returns on 103 items. Blanks giving all information have been mailed to 350,000 firms, but any firm which has not yet received these blanks is urged to apply at once to the bureau of markets, department of agriculture, Washington, or to the field agent of marketing at the North Dakota agricultural college. While the returns are required by law, with a heavy penalty for noncompliance, it is expected by the department that all firms will consider making these reports a patriotic duty.

NORTH DAKOTA GRAIN TO MOVE

the governor that a price of $2.25 was to be expected.

"It will mean $2 wheat at North Dakota elevators," said the governor. "It probably will net the farmer with a good crop a fair return, but the farmer in the western part of the state, where the crop is poor, will not break even."

Representative farmers, even in the Red river valley, where the crop is proportionately heavy, declare wheat cannot be marketed at a profit around $2. If the valley cannot pay expenses at $2, it means a very real loss to the farmer of the slope, whose yields are much smaller and whose expense for labor has been greater.

The effect of the government's price-fixing has been to beat down the market, a result which the Nonpartisan league managers probably did not anticipate when they asked the government to take over the handling of the wheat crop. Even under depressing conditions a price of $2.35 to $2.40 prevailed for cash wheat in Minneapolis yesterday.

The Thirty-Day Clause.
According to a message received by Governor Frazier last night from Rep. John M. Baer, Julius C. Barnes of New York is the man with whom the enforcement of Hoover's regulation requiring the movement of wheat from storage within thirty days rests. "He has arranged so that the title does not pass at the end of thirty days if proven that the grain is not held to enhance the price," Congressman Baer advises.

Whether this improves the situation much the railway commission, which took the initiative in this matter, was not today in a position to determine. There is a question as to how the government or any other agency is to ascertain whether wheat is held with a view to enhancing the price or because the farmer desires to use it next spring for seed. If the price established by the government is a maximum, as the law would seem to indicate, it is difficult to understand how the farmer can hope to enhance the price to be received by holding his grain. If the purpose of this provision is to force grain to market in such quantities that it will depress the price below the maximum established by the government, the clause will work to benefit the commission men and possibly the consumer, but very much to the detriment of the producer.

What Young Says.
"The provision is only one of the links of a gigantic chain of powerful governments and grain-dealers banded together for the purpose of not only destroying all competition in wheat, but requiring the farmers to sell whether they desire to do so or not at prices arbitrarily fixed for them," Representative George M. Young wired the governor last night.

DECISION LAST NIGHT.
Washington, Sept. 3.—A price of $2.20 a bushel was fixed for the 1917 crop of wheat by President Wilson last night on the recommendation of the wheat price committee headed by Dr. H. A. Garfield. The basis will be No. 1 northern spring wheat delivered at Chicago.

The committee finally agreed late yesterday afternoon after several days of voting. At one time it looked as if it would be unable to come to a conclusion, but just before 6 o'clock a compromise was reached and the last vote was unanimous.

Representatives of the producers began by voting for a price of $2.50 and labor's representatives for $1.84. The two extremes eventually narrowed down until the vote was only a few cents apart and most of yesterday's voting showed only a slight difference. Both factions appeared uncompromising at the start.

On the basis of $2.20 at Chicago, the food administration worked out differentials for the various grades and classes and for the several terminals.

The price fixed is 20 cents higher than the minimum named for the 1918 crop by congress in the food control bill. The $2 price set was taken into consideration by the committee in considering a fair valuation of this year's crop.

In a statement accompanying the announcement of the price, President Wilson declares it is the hope of the food administration, and his own as well, that the fixing of a price will stabilize the market and keep prices within moderate bounds for all transactions during the current year.

The price of flour and bread, too, the president declares, will be kept down.

Will Control Market.

The committee in its report to the president gave as its three chief considerations that entered into its deliberations the following:

The fact that the United States is at war, the need of encouraging the producer, and the necessity of reducing the cost of living to the consumer. All members agreed in their discussions that the price fixed will permit of a 14-ounce loaf of bread for five cents, allowing a fair profit both to the flour manufacturer and the baker.

Although the prices are fixed on government purchase only, the food administration, through its wheat corporation, recently organized, expects to control the market without difficulty. The corporation will make all government and allied purchases and has under consideration plans to buy for millers. If it serves as broker between the terminal and the flour mills, the corporation will become purchaser of virtually all of the country's wheat crop.

EVERY COUNTY IN NORTH DAKOTA IS READY FOR CALL

Sufficient Number of Men to Meet Original Call Certified to 62

Boards

"It is now an assured fact that every county in North Dakota will be in position to furnish its quota by Sept. 5, if any men are called at that time," stated Judge Luther E. Birdzell, chairman of the state exemption-board, last evening.

The district board last night finished certifying at least five per cent of the net quota to every county in the state. To many counties more than five per cent, and to a number more than 50 per cent of the net quotas have been certified as accepted by the district board.

The board is proceeding as rapidly as possible with claims for exemptions on agricultural grounds, taking them up by counties. To date it has considered no appeals from local boards. In most instances the period allowed for the making of appeals has not expired. No appeals have yet been taken from the decision of the district board, Judge Birdzell states, and he does not anticipate there will be any. The exemptions of agriculturists, principally owners or operators of farms, and in many instances registrants who likewise have families dependent on them, continue to run about 10 per cent of the number of claims.

Rolllette Not Caring.

Rolllette county isn't losing any sleep over this draft. Its county exemption board hasn't anything to do but look pleasant. No men were called for examination and none need be. None was certified to the district board and none will be. The district board isn't certifying any men back to Rolllette. Rolllette has done its bit. Uncle Sam asked for 80 men for selective service from Rolllette. Rolllette furnished 83 volunteers. There is nothing further for it to do until a second draft is made.

SUPPORT WILSON.

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—A resolution signed by members of the several stages who are attending the rural convention commending President Wilson on his reply to the peace proposal were forwarded to the president today.

Assenting in the belief that the president has voiced the sentiment of the people of the section in which they were residing, they pledged themselves steadfastly to the president.
